The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Welcomed to "The OzBoy File" – "The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombings" I have had this book in the files for ages and though it was about time to release it.

The Whole World is getting sick of these little Zionist Cold Blooded Murdering things, they think and do go about the World Murdering who ever they want with immunity.

Even in my country Australia we have 3 – 4 – 5 Israeli Terrorist Cells Operating right under the noses of ASIO, State Police, Federal Police, ASIS and The Australian Military and nobody does anything to kick them out of Australia.

Dam disgraceful it is that Australians cannot feel safe in their own countries and these above agencies and depts in fact work in with these Zionist Cold Blooded Murders.

Chapter 1) - Bomb Trigger

We can now start to get an idea of the very simple but ingenious way in which the Jordan bombs were activated.

I think we can take as a given that the target of the bombs was the Palestinians, particularly the chief Palestinian spy, and the Chinese military officials.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Besides killing the Palestinians, the bomb was intended to send a message to the Chinese that they shouldn't be dealing with the Palestinians (I'll leave it up to you to guess the identity of the only country in the world that might want to send that kind of message).

Any other story completely ignores the fact that it is just too much of a coincidence that the Palestinian and Chinese officials died.

The technical problem was how to manage the bombing so that the right targets ended up dead.

The civilian deaths were required to lay the basis for the suicide bomb fable.

In other words, most people died simply to hide the identity of the real targets, as an attack against only those people would make the identity of the killers too obvious.

The bombers needed a sure-fire way to ensure that the targets were together in a room pre-planted with the bombs, and that the bombs in the other hotels were detonated at the same time as the bomb directed at the real targets.

A timer wouldn't work, as no one could be sure when the targets would be together in the room. Cell phone triggers might not work, and a radio signal might be jammed (especially with all the spies about).

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

So they came up with a clever low-tech solution.

The bombs were pre-planted in the ceilings, and hooked up to the hotel electrical systems.

As long as the power was on, the detonators were off.

As soon as the power was interrupted, the detonators were triggered.

Someone at the front desk in charge of booking the rooms booked the Chinese and Palestinians into the same conference room, made sure they were all in, and then used the house phone to call the hotel electrical room.

The agent in the electrical room telephoned the other hotels to tell them to set off their almost simultaneous cover explosions which disguised the real target, and flipped the circuit breaker to the room containing the Chinese and Palestinians.

Boom!

An added bonus is that the darkness hid the real source of the blasts, allowing for the creation of the suicide bomber explanation.

The Associated Press reports:

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

"A security official, meanwhile, said lights in sections of both the Radisson and Hyatt hotels went out just before the near-simultaneous blasts in apparently coordinated fashion.

A man who was working as a disc jockey at the Radisson, where a Jordanian-Palestinian wedding reception was bombed, also recalled how the ballroom where the party was being held mysteriously went dark.

'The lights at the wedding hall went off seconds, maybe just one second, before the blast, although there was electricity outside the room in the corridor, the nearby lobby area and the reception,' said Fadi al-Kessi.

'For some reason, I looked to my right in the darkness and saw what looked liked lightning, then there was a loud boom

It felt like the explosion came from the ceiling, then people started running out.'"

Chapter 2) - Corporate Media and Amman Bombings: Nothing Here, Move On

It is simply amazing how the corporate media can ignore the obvious fact there were no suicide bombers at the hotels in Amman, how photo evidence proves beyond a shadow of a doubt (see images linked in this previous post) the bombs were placed in the ceiling of the hotels, and how it makes absolutely no sense for supposed Iraqi resistance fighters to kill innocent civilians in a neighboring state.

Instead of pointing out these glaring inconsistencies, the corporate media zooms in on Sajida Mubarak Atrous al-Rishawi, the Iraqi patsy alleged to have participated in suicide bombings that never occurred, as the photo evidence reveals.

Meanwhile, like a ghoulish circus barker, Secretary of State Condi Rice “said in a speech in Israel, where she tried to revive Arab-Israeli peace hopes, that she was very encouraged so many Jordanians had spoken out against terrorism since the attacks, which killed 54 mostly Jordanians.

Thousands have held rallies and candle-light vigils in recent days,” according to Reuters.

Once again, the corporate media fails to mention the obvious, taking us for fools and chumps – there is no such thing as “Arab-Israeli peace hopes,” since Israel has no intention of ever engaging in peace with Arabs, either in occupied Palestine or anywhere else, and are more than likely responsible for the Jordan “suicide bombings.”

Finally, the corporate media pretends Arabs are attending “rallies and candle-light vigils” en masse,

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

when in fact most Arabs believe Israel and the United States are responsible for these increasingly frequent and deadly terrorist attacks, thus proving Arabs living under authoritarian governments (supported by the United States) are more intelligent than the average American

AMW chairman on ABC TV re Jordan bombs
Arabmediawatch.blogspot – November 10, 2005

AMW chairman Sharif Hikmat Nashashibi was interviewed on US station ABC on November 9 about the bombings in Amman, Jordan.

AMW is available for interviews regarding the bombings on 07956 455 528, as is Mary Nazzal-Batayneh, whose family owns the Radisson, one of the bombed hotels.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

She can be contacted on 07841 748 629 in London and 00962795522702 in Jordan. She sent out the following press release:

We are the owners of Radisson SAS Jordan.

As the owners we want to send deep condolences to all the staff and guests.

We are deeply shocked and obviously condemn such acts.

We very briefly want to set the record straight on 2 points.

Firstly, news reports have been indicating that the Radisson SAS was specifically attacked because it is an American hotel and has hosted Israelis.

I want to make it clear that the Radisson SAS is a Scandinavian chain and owned by Palestinian-Jordanians.

Furthermore, the Radisson SAS owners and staff represent the strongest supporters out of all the hotels in Jordan for the Palestinian and Iraqi people.

We have expressed our support throughout the decades and will continue to do so.

Chapter 4) Bomb in ceiling caused Jordan hotel blast – source

A blast at the Radisson hotel in the Jordanian capital Amman on Wednesday was caused by a bomb placed in a false ceiling, police sources at the scene told Reuters.

<http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/9980123/>

The above brief report contradicts all the stories about “suicide bombers” but is substantiated by the photo printed below.

Chapter 5) - More confirmation that Israelis were evacuated prior to attacks

Suicide Attacks Kill at Least 57 at 3 Hotels in Jordan's Capital

The Truth About Jordan Hotel Bombing

Suicide bombers carried out nearly simultaneous attacks on three Western chain hotels here Wednesday night, killing at least 57 people, wounding more than 100 and emphatically ending Jordan's status as an oasis of relative calm in the Middle East.

The blasts struck the Grand Hyatt, Radisson SAS and Days Inn in the Jordanian capital just before 9 p.m., sending clouds of black smoke billowing into the sky and leaving some of the bloodied victims lying on plush-carpeted floors.

At the Radisson, an assailant detonated an explosives belt in the midst of a wedding party in a crowded banquet hall, resulting in extensive casualties, officials said.

At the Days Inn, a car bomber was unable to breach the security perimeter outside the hotel before detonating his explosives, Deputy Prime Minister Marwan Muasher told reporters.

Emergency workers rushing to the scenes used bellman's carts to carry the wounded out of the hotels.

The flood of victims overwhelmed local hospitals.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Sixteen corpses were placed in a single room and dozens of the injured were in danger of dying overnight, the surgeon said.

No group claimed immediate responsibility for the bombings, but Western intelligence officials said the multiple, tightly coordinated suicide attacks focusing on relatively soft targets bore the hallmark of the Al Qaeda network.

Muasher, in an interview on CNN, said that although it was too early to tell for sure, he believed Al Qaeda-affiliated Jordanian-born militant Abu Musab Zarqawi was “obviously the prime suspect.”

Early reports indicated that the majority of the victims Wednesday were Jordanian civilians.

The injured included Moustapha Akkad, the internationally famed Syrian-born film director of “The Message” and “Lion of the Desert.”

Akkad’s 30-year-old daughter, Reem, died in one of the blasts.

Madison Conoley, a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Amman, said no American citizens were known to have been injured.

Associated Press reported that an American at the Hyatt, speaking with a Southern drawl, had said, “My friends are dead.” The blast shattered the entrance to the five-star hotel.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Reuters quoted a French U.N. official as saying, "I was eating with friends in the restaurant next to the bar when I saw a huge ball of fire shoot up to the ceiling and then everything went black."

The U.S. Embassy was advising Americans in Amman to take what the spokesman called "common sense" precautions such as "avoiding large crowds and keeping a low profile."

The Israeli newspaper Haaretz reported that Israelis staying at the Radisson on Wednesday had been evacuated before the attacks and escorted back home "apparently due to a specific security threat."

Amos N. Guiora, a former senior Israeli counter-terrorism official, said in a phone interview with The Times that sources in Israel had also told him about the pre-attack evacuations.

"It means there was excellent intelligence that this thing was going to happen," said Guiora, a former leader of the Israel Defense Forces who now heads the Institute for Global Security Law and Policy at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

"The question that needs to be answered is why weren't the Jordanians working at the hotel similarly removed?"

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Jordanian security forces were placed on high alert, deploying throughout the capital around hotels, embassies and malls.

The Jordanian government sealed off the borders and announced that all government and public offices would be closed in mourning today. Jordan's King Abdullah II condemned the attacks, calling them criminal acts committed by "a misled and misleading group."

In Washington, President Bush said the bombings "again demonstrated the terrible cruelty of the terrorists and the great toll they take on civilized society."

Bush, in a statement, pledged full support and assistance for the Jordanian government, which he called "a key ally in the war on terror."

Jordan has long enjoyed a reputation as a safe zone sandwiched between its violent, unstable neighbors — Israel and the Palestinian territories to the west and Iraq to the east.

Nestled amid the tumult, Jordan looks at first like a sleepy strip of desert and rugged mountains, tourist-friendly and eager to get along politically with other Arab countries as well as the West.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

As suicide attacks took place routinely in Israel, large-scale bombings rocked hotels in Egypt and an insurgency raged in Iraq after the U.S.-led invasion of 2003, Jordan largely escaped the region's violence. At the same time, the type of attack that occurred Wednesday had long been seen by Amman as a possibility.

"We've always been concerned about it," said Taher Masri, a former Jordanian prime minister.

"We've known the terrorists have been targeting Jordan for a long time."

Al Qaeda's confederates have been helping wage the bloody insurgency against U.S. troops and government security forces in Iraq.

Al Qaeda's reported leader there, Zarqawi, has in past statements threatened to bring his fight home. Current and former U.S. counter-terrorism officials pointed out that the Radisson SAS hotel has in the past been a target of both Al Qaeda and Zarqawi's affiliated but independent network.

Al Qaeda, they said, has made repeated attempts on the same target.

Zarqawi, they said, was centrally involved in a plot in late 1999 to target Amman hotels during millennium celebrations.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

The plot was thwarted by Jordanian intelligence, and Zarqawi fled to his base in Afghanistan.

He oversaw a terrorist training camp there until the post-Sept. 11 U.S. military strikes in October 2001. Several dozen militants were eventually convicted in the millennium plot, including Zarqawi and others in absentia.

Jordan's peaceful reputation may have been what drew the attackers to it, said Labib Kamhawi, a former political science professor at Jordan University in Amman.

"The more Jordan stressed this, the more determined these groups were to disrupt that safety," Kamhawi said.

The kingdom's security and intelligence services have long been known for skillful spy work — and tough crackdowns against Islamic extremists and other would-be agitators.

One Western diplomat in Amman, in a 2004 interview, called Jordan "the most effective police state in the region."

But the threat of unrest has lurked beneath the surface for years. Jordan is poor, and its political life stifled.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

The population is heavily Palestinian, and public sympathy for the Palestinian cause put the government under intense pressure as it negotiated peace with Israel and kept up close ties with the U.S.

The war in Iraq and the grinding insurgency there further eroded stability, analysts say.

Jordan became a staging ground for contractors, journalists, aid workers and diplomats headed into Iraq — and a refuge for Iraqis fleeing the chaos.

With public sentiment squarely against the invasion and occupation of Iraq, the Jordanian government has continued its public support for the United States.

"[Jordan] was always a fragile oasis," said Joost Hiltermann, an Amman-based analyst for the International Crisis Group. " ...

It was only a matter of time before somebody got through."

Cracks have been showing in Jordan's seemingly impermeable security screen in recent years.

In 2002, U.S. diplomat Laurence Foley was gunned down in front of his house in Amman.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Earlier this year, militants in the Jordanian port city of Aqaba launched homemade missiles, narrowly missing a U.S. warship and killing a Jordanian soldier.

Masri, the former prime minister, said the attacks proved that the U.S.-led invasion of Iraq in 2003 had begun to seriously destabilize the region.

"Iraq was not the source of terrorism [before the invasion]," Masri said, "but now it has become exactly that."

The bombings could prompt an exodus by the international aid organizations and multinational contracting and security companies for whom Jordan has served as a safe staging point for operations in Iraq. Kamhawi, the political analyst, predicted an abrupt end to Jordan's ongoing economic boom.

"A lot of the investments are coming because Jordan is safe," he said.

"We don't have oil. We don't have water. All we have is stability."

A look at attacks connected with Jordan in recent years:

- Aug. 19, 2005: Attackers fire at least three rockets from the hills above the Jordanian port city of Aqaba, with one narrowly missing a U.S. Navy ship docked in the port and another hitting a taxi outside an airport in nearby Israel.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

A Jordanian soldier is killed.

- Aug. 7, 2003: A car bomb explodes outside the Jordanian Embassy in Baghdad, killing at least 17 people, including two children.

More than 50 people are wounded.

- Oct. 28, 2002: An American diplomat, Laurence Foley, is assassinated in front of his house in Amman, gunned down in the first such attack on a U.S. diplomat in decades.
- March 28, 1998: A crude bomb explodes in an elite English-language school in Amman in what one senior government official calls an apparent attempt to instigate attacks against Americans.

The explosion shatters windows but causes no injuries.

- Jan. 17, 1998: Masked men raid a dinner party at the hillside mansion of a wealthy Iraqi businessman in Amman, slitting the throats of a top Baghdad diplomat and seven other people.

Times staff writer Khalil reported from Cairo, staff writer Meyer from Washington and special correspondent Kadri from Amman.

Staff writer Megan K. Stack in Bahrain also contributed to this report.

Chapter 6) - Who died, and who didn't, in Jordan

NO Jews or Israeli's died

Chapter 7) - Israelis evacuated before attack

How many coincidences can we take?

First Israelis at the Odigo message center in Israel were warned in advance about the WTC attacks, then when Benjamin Netanyahu was in London he was warned not to go out minutes before the 7/7 attacks and now this!!

The Haaretz reporter who wrote in yesterday's paper that the Israelis had been evacuated from the Jordanian hotels before the bombing has withdrawn the story in today's issue of the paper, saying there is no truth to the report.

Yediot Aharonoth reported that the only Israeli killed in the explosions was Arab.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

It would have been helpful if rather than simply denying that the original story was true, the reporter had explained how it came to be there in the first place and who or what was his source.

(Original story reprinted below, as it appeared in early editions of yesterday's Haaretz.)

How many coincidences can we take?

First, Israelis at the Odigo message center in Israel were warned in advance about the World Trade Center bombings, according to both Ha'aretz and the Washington Post, and five Israelis who were identified in the Forward as Mossad agents, working for a phony Mossad-owned moving company were arrested while laughing and filming the destroyed buildings from across the river in New Jersey.

Then, the mainstream media reported that Israeli officials acknowledged that Benjamin Netanyahu who was in London at the time was warned not to go out minutes before the July 7 attack in the London subway and now we have this.

If indeed it is true, what gives?

Bombs rocked three hotels in Amman late last night, killing at least 57 people and wounding more than 115 in apparent suicide attacks.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

One of the hotels is known to be popular with Israeli tourists.

“There were three terrorist attacks on the Grand Hyatt, Radisson SAS and Days Inn hotels, and it is believed that the blasts were suicide bombings,” police spokesman Major Bashir al-Da’aja told The Associated Press.

He declined to elaborate.
There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attacks.

A police official said the attacks were simultaneous and hit minutes before 9 P.M. in two districts in the Jordanian capital, including the commercial area of Jebel Amman and Al-Rabiyeh, which houses the Israeli Embassy.

A number of Israelis staying yesterday at the Radisson SAS were evacuated before the bombing by Jordanian security forces, apparently due to a specific security alert.

They were escorted back to Israel by security personnel.

The Foreign Ministry stated yesterday that no Israeli tourists are known to have been injured in the blasts.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Representatives of Israel's embassy in Amman were in contact with local authorities to examine any report of injured Israelis, but none were received.

There are often a number of Israeli businessman and tourists in Amman, including in the hotels hit yesterday.

Israel's counter-terror headquarters yesterday recommended Israeli citizens not travel in Jordan.

Travel recommendations regarding Jordan were tightened a few months ago, but many Israelis still visit the country.

Many also visit other regions such as the Jordanian Arava and the ancient city of Petra.

The first bomber, at 8:50 P.M. local time, struck the Grand Hyatt, completely shattering the stone entrance.

An AP reporter saw at least seven bodies removed from the hotel and many more wounded carried out on stretchers.

CNN reported an eyewitness saying the Jordanian prime minister's car was at the Grand Hyatt at the time of the blast.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Police said a second explosion hit the nearby Radisson SAS hotel, where about 250 people were attending a wedding reception.

At least five were killed and at least 20 wounded in that blast, believed to have been caused by a bomb placed in a false ceiling, police sources at the scene told Reuters.

The Radisson, in particular, is popular with Israeli tourists and was a target of several foiled Al-Qaida plots in the past.

Police also reported a third explosion at the Days Inn Hotel in Amman.

There were also casualties at that hotel.

"The attacks carry the trademark of Al-Qaida," one police official said on condition of anonymity in line with police regulations.

"However, it is not certain. We are investigating." Ayman al-Safadi, editor of Jordan's Al-Ghad newspaper, told the Al-Arabiya satellite network that it was a "terrorist operation."

"Finally, the terrorists succeeded in breaking the security in Jordan," he said, referring to past success in foiling many terror plots.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

Jordan's King Abdullah II condemned the attack, saying, "Justice will pursue the criminals" behind the Amman suicide attacks, CNN reported.

Abdullah, who was on an official visit to Kazakhstan, cut short his trip and was returning home last night.

The Grand Hyatt and Radisson SAS hotels, in the commercial Jebel Amman district, are located about one kilometer apart and are frequented by American and European businessmen and diplomats. The Days Inn is located three kilometers away.

An American businessman who was at the Grand Hyatt when the explosion occurred said a "bomb that went off in the lobby." He declined to identify himself.

"It was a miracle that we made it out with a scratch," said a British guest at the Grand Hyatt.

"We thought it was fireworks for the wedding but I saw people falling to the ground," said Ahmed, a wedding guest at the Radisson who did not give his surname. "I saw blood. There were people killed. It was ugly."

Jordan, a key ally of both the United States and Israel, had largely escaped the terror attacks that have hit other parts of the Middle East, and its sleepy capital, Amman, is viewed as a haven of stability in the region.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

But Jordan has not been entirely immune: On Aug. 19, militants fired three Katyusha rockets at a U.S. Navy ship docked at the Red Sea resort of Aqaba, narrowly missing it and killing a Jordanian soldier.

Jordanian officials blamed that attack on Al-Qaida in Iraq, and there have been growing worries that the violence in Iraq could spill over into Jordan, where many Iraqi exiles have taken refuge from the violence

Chapter 8) - China's New "Cozyness" with Palestine Targeted

Barely mentioned in the mainstream media, 3 Chinese were among the dead of the Amman bombings. They belonged to a Delegation of the Chinese Defense Forces holding talks to strengthen ties with their Palestinian and/or Jordanian counterparts...

Chapter 9) - Palestinian Sec. Chief was the Real Target

The whole Palestinian "Security-Elite" has been terminated in yesterday's blasts of Jordanian's capital Amman. Besides the commander of the Palestinian Special Forces, Bashir Nafeh, Jihad Fatouh, the commercial attache at the Palestinian Embassy

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

In Cairo, and Mosab Khorma, deputy Chairman of Cairo-Amman Bank in the Palestinian territories and Col. Abed Allun, another high-ranking Preventive Security forces official, were also killed in the three nearly simultaneous suicide bombings on American-owned hotels...

Now, similar to London's 777-bombings, where Bibi Nethanyahu was "tipped off" BEFORE THE 'ERROR-BOMBINGS there again was a forewarning from Israeli security reported IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE ATTACK by Israeli daily Haaretz:

"...A number of Israelis staying on Wednesday at the Radisson hotel were evacuated before the bombing by Jordanian security forces, apparently due to a specific security alert. They were escorted back to Israel by security personnel..."

But now – SURPRISE – the story changed again – as we have seen from London.

The edited link from Haaretz reads now in brushed-up "Orwelled" mode:

There is no truth to reports that Israelis staying at the Radisson SAS hotel in Amman on Wednesday were evacuated by Jordanian security forces before the bombing that took place there.

The Truth About Jordon Hotel Bombing

The Israelis were escorted back to Israel by Jordanian security personnel only after the attacks had taken place, contrary to earlier reports...

But there still another story at the same paper where you can find the "report from the first minutes":

Scores dead in three Amman hotel bombings; Israelis evacuated before attack

You can find the quote as well here on AlJazeera.net
Watch again the subliminal messages that – although there were NO Israeli casualties reported – Israel was the “target”.

At least for the MSM-Medea.

In fact you only have to look who were the victims.
Then you see the real targets – and you may get an answer to the question – “Who benefits?”.

And that should always be the main suspect – at least at the “normal” courts – for “normal” people...

Conclusion

I am sure we made our case with the above, and as you can see the whole Operation was to kill the Palestinian Security Chief.

We are amazed at the gutless Chinese killing a few of their Generals and staff and China did nothing, absolutely nothing.

Don't join the Chinese Military if some other countries Intelligence Agencies kill you your country China will do nothing.
